The Importance of Interaction and Engagement for Senior Health

From birth, humans have an instinct to express themselves and engage with others. This instinct remains crucial throughout life in all of its stages.

For older adults, maintaining these regular interactions and engagements is encouraged as changes may occur with retirement, a new schedule, moving, being apart from certain family members or friends, and/or physical health. Companionship and activities with others can provide comfort and stability through life changes.

Some changes can lead to depression, feelings of sadness and loneliness, and/or self-isolating behaviors. For those who struggle with loneliness or self-isolation, it is important to recognize that those feelings are there and to let someone know.

Why Social Engagement is Necessary

Research studies suggest that there is a strong correlation between older adults' emotional and physical health and how social they are in their daily lives. The Alzheimer's Association has stated that brain vitality can best be maintained through physical and mental activities that involve social engagement, along with a brain-healthy diet.

Ways to Increase Engagement

To increase social interactions, it is a good idea for people to try to spend time in spaces where others are engaging in group activities. Taking on activities and setting goals add senses of purpose to daily life.

Engaging activities could include playing cards or table games, making puzzles, creating art, using technology to connect with others, walking, exercising, taking a class, gardening, cooking, fishing, going on a trip, watching a movie, listening to or watching a musician or entertainer, and/or dining with others. Discussion groups in which people talk about similar interests and activities or hobbies are also beneficial for senior health. Helping out with a cause and/or taking care of a pet are two additional ways that seniors can find a sense of purpose and stay engaged. Having pride about a job well done or a person or animal cared for can lift up spirits and brighten daily life.

Note: Each individual should follow the advice of their medical professionals or doctors and speak with them before making changes to diet and/or exercise.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Each October people across the United States don pink and participate in fundraisers to increase the awareness of breast cancer. The month long drive to raise awareness stems from the knowledge that while most people are aware of this all-too-common disease, many people have not taken the steps to help themselves detect the disease in its early stages.

The month is also set aside to help support those that have or are survivors of breast cancer and raise funds for research.

Breast Cancer in Seniors

The chances of getting a breast cancer diagnosis increases with age. A woman in her thirties has a chance of about 1 in 233 of discovering breast cancer while a woman in her eighties has a chance of about 1 in 8. The average age of diagnosis of breast cancer in women is at age 62. Regular screening is increasingly important for women with greater risk factors, including age

Hope isn’t rational. Hope doesn’t make sense. Hope sees beyond the obvious. Hope may seem naive. But, without hope, what else do we have?

“In this world, Hope still remains strong on the list of human needs. It is like a single candle during the night, it gives light for us to continue on and find the way out of the darkness. This light of hope burns so strongly in the hearts of some. Hope is all we need to keep on living.
