Arthritis Facts and Care Tips

May marks National Arthritis Month to bring awareness to a very common, but often misunderstood condition. A wide misconception about Arthritis is that it is a single disease. It's actually a way of referring to joint pain or joint disease.

Symptoms of Arthritis can come and go, and include mild to severe swelling, pain, stiffness, and lessened motion range. It can limit a person's ability to partake in some daily activities.

Osteoarthritis is the most common type of Arthritis. Risk factors include family history, being overweight, age, and injuries sustained. Those with non-severe Osteoarthritis can help the condition if they: achieve a healthy weight, get enough exercise, rest per activity level - especially during a flare up, avoid repetitive movements, strengthen muscles around joints, and use hot and cold therapy.

Inflammatory Arthritis is another type. Rheumatoid and Psoriatic Arthritis are in this category. It occurs when the immune system creates inflammation to get rid of what it falsely perceives as infection. It occurs in people with genetic predisposition and environmental risk factors like smoking. Early diagnosis and strong treatment are key in slowing the condition.

Receiving a diagnosis for Arthritis can be done through a primary care provider or Rheumatologist. There are many ways that Arthritis can be helped.

Arthritis Foundation Pain Management Tips:

- Create a plan with your rheumatologist.
- Be aware of and track your warning signs, like a dull hand ache or daytime sleepiness for days.
- Stay up to date on vaccinations and wash hands frequently to avoid infections which could trigger a flare.
- Stay on top of your emotional health.

Anxiety and stress can increase inflammation.

- Slow your movements, but continue moving to avoid stiff joints. Move joints through the fullest range of motion you can. If it causes more pain, stop.

- Do hot & cold therapy, no more than 15 minute intervals, two to four times a day.
- Sleep on a schedule, get restful sleep with lights off, devices off, and avoid caffeine in the hours before you head to bed.
