

I write in acknowledgement of the generosity and caring I experienced as an employee of JMG Realty. It was nine years ago, nearly to the day, that my niece Victoria (Tori) Rose Walsh was nominated for the JMG Holiday Giving Back Charity when she suddenly passed away at the age of 10 from the effects of Muscular Dystrophy. My family and I were blessed by the bounty of JMG in the wake of a very difficult time.

Muscular Dystrophy is a group of hereditary disorders that inflicts, young and old, with a debilitating and progressive weakening of the muscles. Since my family, there have been two other families affected by MD and nominated for the Giving Back Charity.

MDA is an organization that utilizes nearly every penny of every dollar in research and has made recent break through discoveries with advancements in gene therapy.

Tori's cousin, my niece Adeline, will begin her undergraduate studies in biology next fall as she pursues a career in genetics, an interest she formed by growing up with Tori and seeing her struggle through life. The photographs show Tori as an excited, soon to be flower girl and Tori and Addie together sharing a book with their favorite aunt, Nancy.

I want to thank Karlton, Tim, and all the partners and staff for their unwavering generosity and support as seen through the tradition of the Giving Back Charity.
