Bringing In The New Year Was So Much Fun

With the new year upon us, Maple Ridge was eager to leave 2018 with a bang and start our first full year of being open. The night began with some sampling of our chef-made Texas caviar; gotta have black eyed peas for luck! When the music started, the evening shifted into a swinging good time with our performer, Kimberly Krohn, who was every bit funny as talented. The evening ended with a champagne (sparkling cider) toast accompanied with "Auld Lang Syne." We cant wait to see how we're going to top it in 2019.

The Perfect Nighttime Walk in Venice, Italy

Here is my perfect nighttime walk in Venice. Venice gets packed during the day, but at night, especially if the fog rolls in off the Adriatic Sea, the city becomes private and magical all over again. This nighttime walk passes through Venice's hippest nightlife locations, along the open sea and past many of Venice's most beautiful buildings. Venice is an exceptionally safe city, and this nighttime walk will stick to well-populated areas. To make sure we don't overexert ourselves, I'll recommend several cafes and gelaterias.

The nighttime walk begins in St. Mark's Square, winds through the happening Dorsoduro neighborhood and passes the beautiful churches of the San Polo neighborhood, before making a full loop and returning to St. Mark's Square.

St. Mark's Square is home to Venice's most commanding architecture, most of which dates between 1300-1600. This was once the seat of the Venetian Empire, and it can get a bit eerie thinking about all of the kings, queens, troops and jesters who've strolled through the piazza. If the wind's blowing, you might even be able to hear their voices.

Heading west, stroll beneath the long portico that wraps around the piazza and exit onto the street, Santa San Moise. Continue straight until reaching Campo Santo Stefano. Walk past the famous Galleria dell'Accademia art museum and across the Academy Bridge, then continue straight until reaching the Fondamenta Zattere Ai Gesuati. This part of Venice can be downright freaky on a foggy night; the distant lights on the island of Giudecca are nearly obscured, making the sound of the lapping waves seem all the stronger. The adventuresome can walk to the elaborate, domed church, Santa Maria Della Salute, which guards over the entrance to the Grand Canal. The rest of us will be eating gelato at Gelateria Nico. Turn left on Fondamenta Zattere Ai Gesuati and you can't miss it (the gelateria stays open late during the summer months).

Continue on Fondamenta Nani, located just past Gelateria Nico. Take the second bridge, admiring the stunning Venetian glass artworks in the windows of Massimo Micheluzzi's gallery, located at the foot of the bridge. Wind your way to Campo San Barnaba, and continue onto the street Rio Terà Canal. Here you'll find Imagina Café, a wine bar and art gallery that features Veneto-region wines beginning at 2.50€ a glass. Campo Santa Margherite, one of Venice's most happening nightlife scenes, is another hundred steps past Imagina. Every night, university students and revelers fill this piazza, either spilling out of the cafes or standing among the statues swigging wine or beer.

Exit the piazza on the opposite side from which you entered, continuing on Chiesa San Pantalon. This area is one of the most maze-like in Venice. Carefully wind your way to Campo Dei Frari and the Frari church, which is one of the city's most stunning, featuring Italian Gothic architecture. Now head for the Rialto Bridge. Along the way, enter Campo San Polo and stand in the middle; imagine the hundreds of bullfights that were held here.

Finally, cross the Rialto Bridge — the most iconic of Venice's bridges — where you'll be returning to St. Mark's Square.

Resident of The Month: Dale Mullikin

The story of Dale Mullikin all starts in the small town of Horsehead, located in upstate New York. His mother Margret Elizabeth, only measuring 4'9," and Father George Harry, reaching the sky at 6'1," gave birth to 12 beautiful children. Dale, being the 10th in the family, managed to stay 10th on the food chain. After living in Horsehead for a few years, the Mullikin family moved to a dairy farm right outside of the city of Howard. Dale remembers feeding the cows on the dairy farm corn silage; he would pile it up in a perfect mound right in front of each cow and call it corn ice cream. One of Dale's favorite things on the farm was his horse, Red Morgan. One day on the farm, Dale decided he wanted to go into the house for a bit but didn't want to leave the horse outside. So, Dale marched the horse up the front steps, through the door, into the atrium and back to the kitchen where his mother was cooking. Instead of his mother getting angry or flustered, she gave the horse some sugar, and they went on their way. Dale's interest and background in farm animals lead him to join FFA in high school. While Dale was in high school, he met his sweetheart, Mary Ann. Soon after they graduated high school, they were wed. For a while after they got married, Dale worked for his father-in-law as a carpenter laborer. After six months, Dale began to work the night shift for a freight yard unloading box cars to give his up-and-coming family a good start. Dale and Mary Ann had six children together, three boys and three girls, the perfect mix. Their names are Margret Ann, Teddy Sue, Mary Jo, Jonathan, David and Paul, all of which have grown into wonderful people.

Margret Ann, Teddy Sue, Mary Jo, Jonathan, David and Paul

On February 6th, 1952, Dale joined the United States Air Force. This brought him and his family to France and Germany, where they lived for a while. Dale himself was sent to Canada, Thailand and England. In Canada, Dale worked in the Pagwa Train station learning to cut hair, which later lead him to cut his whole family's hair. While in Thailand, he worked on sending support to Vietnam during the war. In the Air Force, Dale learned the skill of mechanics for vehicles and aircrafts, specializing on F-4 fighter jets. Dale was even a 1st Sergeant and retired from the US Air Force as an E-6 Tech Sergeant. Dale's last day in the Air Force was on September 30th, 1972.

After the Air Force, Dale and his beautiful family moved to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he lived for the next 44 years. For a career, Dale took up being a mechanic at Ford Motors for nine years. He then started working for the city's water company and retired after 15 years. Dale, being the industrious worker he is, continued to work as a snowplow with his own truck. He regulated 15 properties such as businesses, churches and driveways. After all Dale has experienced, his true passion will always be working on things that need fixing and plowing snow.

Dale's new adventure in life is Coming to Cedar Park, Texas, with his trusty companion, Charlie, the Min Pin, and meeting his wonderful girlfriend, Gail. Though the move was a little rough, he is so grateful to be down here and closer to four of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. So far, Dale says moving to Texas is like a breath of fresh air that can really make your heart happy. He would really like to thank his family for everything, because his move would not have been possible without his loving family.
