Father's Day Poem

Silent, Strong Dad

He never looks for praises.
He's never one to boast.
He just goes on quietly working
For those he loves the most.

His dreams are seldom spoken.
His wants are very few,
And most of the time his worries
Will go unspoken, too.

He's there ... a firm foundation
Through all our storms of life,
A sturdy hand to hold onto
In times of stress and strife.

A true friend we can turn to
When times are good or bad.
One of our greatest blessings,
The man that we call Dad.

Scott and Debbie Driscoll

Scott was born in Sacramento, California, that's in Northern California. His father was a consultant so his family traveled as dad followed the contracts for work. Scott, as a child, lived in New York, multiple locations in California and Canada. His grandmother was a wonderful cook. From a young age, she taught Scott how to cook and he enjoyed cooking — a lot. Grandma made everything from scratch and it tasted great. We are looking forward to trying some of his food. Scott has one brother, Steve, who is four years older.

Debbie was born in Whittier, California — that's in Southern California. Unlike Scott, Debbie's family did not travel. In fact, her parents still live in the same home they bought when Debbie was 2 weeks old. Debbie has a brother, Bob, who is 14 months older than she and then she has a little brother, Andy, who is 15 years younger and a little sister, Cindy, who is 17 years younger. All four, are from the same parents.

Scott and Debbie met in high school. Scott and Bob, Debbie's big brother, met as sophomores when they were on the football team and they became best friends. In Scott's sophomore year of college and Debbie's freshman year of college, they began dating, having known each other for three years. For two years they dated long distance as Scott lived in Southern California and Debbie was away at college in Arizona. Debbie was recruited to Arizona on a full scholarship to play basketball, where she also played volleyball and softball.

After two years in Arizona, Debbie returned on basketball scholarship to Cal State Fullerton in Southern California to be closer to Scott. In the summer of 1982 Scott and Debbie married. Scott always says that he married his best friends' little sister!

Welcome them to Summerville Estates !

All in This Together

This is what we do to still stay together. When we have to social distance we adapt and improvise. On this beautiful day a few residents decided to eat lunch outside and fellowship.

I know it is hard to make changes, but everyone has settled in to the temporary way that we have to do things. Just think when all this is over what a great time we are going to have on our everyday events and outings. Everyone has been great on giving new ideas about things they want to do.

We have had wonderful notes and cards that the residents have been giving staff members and each other.

We are truly a family here at Summerville Estates.

Donation

Just wanted to put a shout-out to thank Sherri Lawson at our Classic Hair Salon and Coastal Kettle Corn and Pork Skins for the great kettle corn for our snack cart. The residents love it! When the social distancing is done and we get back to normal we would like for the folks at Coastal Kettle Corn to come set up at the building for our coming out cookout.

Brain Bender: What a Catch!

Four buddies—Calvin, Gary, Nate and Stan—went fishing. They each caught a different kind of fish: bass, walleye, perch and trout. From the clues below, can you determine the first and last names of each fisherman, what kind of fish he caught, and how much the fish weighed (3, 6, 8 or 10 pounds)?

1. Stan’s last name isn’t Hall.
2. Calvin, whose last name isn’t Reynolds, didn’t catch the smallest fish.
3. The man who caught the 8-pound fish didn’t catch the walleye.
4. Mr. White didn’t catch the 6-pound trout.
5. Nate caught the perch.
6. The fish were caught in the following order, from smallest to largest: Mr. Hall, Gary Benson, bass, and Calvin.

Summerville Estates Coronavirus Poem Winners

Wanda Kesterson

Wanda Kesterson's "Toilet Paper" Poem:

Panic shoppers putting rolls of toilet paper in their cart Who knew that Mr. Whipple would be so smart
Don't squeeze the Charmin
he said in waves
And made commercials telling us how to behave Bet he didn't know then there would be such a shortage in 2020 Can't wait for the day when toilet paper will be aplenty.

"Coronavirus" Poem:

We are going to get thru this even though we are apart
Love and Compassion will not stop
Even if the virus is hard to block
This will be a challenging season
But trust God beyond all reason Remember to stay calm and take care for friends and family will always be there.
We are going to get thru this even though we are apart because social distancing never applies to the heart.

Evelyn Christopher

Evelyn Christopher: "Coronavirus"

There was a time not so long ago
Spring was coming Flowers all a bloom
Little did we know Coronavirus would arrive soon
It's changed our lives
Who will survive
When will it end and peace arrive
God bless us all and hear our call.

Peggy Spence: "Coronavirus"

I never saw a Coronavirus.
I never hope to see one!
But I can tell you one thing now-I'd rather see than to be one.

Marianne Rough: "Cancelled"

A virus we cannot control is in our midst, taking its toll
A long-planned trip by a friend and me to China and up the beautiful Yangtze
Cancelled
A blessing in disguise, since the virus, China born
Has come to us with much to mourn
A virus which we cannot see, steals the hearts and minds of gentle folk and leaves doubting what the good book wrote How can this be? You, who taught me to be good and kind, Lord; now hold dear suspicions of those near Please let us awake to find this nightmare cancelled Needy folk who have seen the worst of want and fear, themselves are fighting more than they can bear;
Oh, your request for help is Cancelled
Your testing is cancelled
Your medicine is cancelled
Your request to see your dying loved one is cancelled Please Dear Lord, come to us and declare this virus to be cancelled.

Lure ‘Em In

Open up an angler’s tackle box, and there’s likely to be a few fishing lures inside. An alternative to live bait, lures come in a variety of styles.

Crankbait: Also called cranks or plugs, these popular lures are made of plastic or wood and look like bait such as small fish or frogs. An attached piece, or lip, on the lure controls how it moves in the water. Cranks usually have multiple hooks.

Jigs: A hook with a weighted metal head that allows it to sink, this type of lure is made for jigging, a style of fishing where the rod is lifted and lowered back down repeatedly, creating a dancing movement to attract fish. To make it more appealing, the lure’s hook can be adorned with feathers, a fake worm, or live bait.

Spinnerbait: These lures have small oval blades that spin like a propeller when pulled through the water. Usually sporting a fringed “skirt” made of strands of rubber or animal hair, a spinner’s horizontal movements are irresistible to fish such as bass, perch and pike.

Spoons: One of the oldest lures used was a common utensil—a spoon with its handle removed. Modern spoons are simply curved metal lures with a hook. The curved shape makes the lure wobble side to side, resembling injured bait to hungry fish.

Flies: To make these lures used for fly fishing, anglers tie fur, feathers or thread around a fishhook so that it resembles an insect or crustacean. Because of the skill involved, tying flies is considered an art.

Hog Wild for Harleys

For more than a century, Harley-Davidson motorcycles have been synonymous with adventure and cruising on the open road.

In 1901, the wheels began turning for a young Milwaukee man named William S. Harley, who had the idea for a motorized bicycle. He drew a blueprint of a small engine to fit on a bike, and over the next two years, he and childhood friend Arthur Davidson worked on the design. Davidson’s two brothers soon joined the team.

They built the first motorcycles in a backyard shed. In 1905, their first dealership opened in Chicago. As business grew, the company hired more employees and built a factory in Milwaukee. Police departments began ordering Harleys for their officers, and the U.S. military bought thousands of bikes during both world wars, where troops used them to deliver messages between units.

After World War II, legions of leisure riders took to the roads, cementing the popular brand as an American icon. The company’s bar and shield logo in orange, black and white is one of the most recognizable emblems in the world.

Harley-Davidson motorcycles are sometimes called “hogs,” a nickname that began in the 1920s, when one of the company’s winning racing teams carried their mascot, a pig, on their victory laps.
