A forgotten Tradition – May Basket Day

Hanging a May basket on someone's door was a chance to express romantic interest. People would leave a basket of flowers or sweets, usually anonymously, on one's doorstep or hang it on their door. It was custom to knock or ring the door bell, yell "May Basket," and then run. We like carrying on that tradition at the Landings with our residents.

Garden time

It is time to get your hands dirty and start digging in the garden!! Our residents love creating and taking care of our vegetable gardens boxes. Last year they added berries to the mix. It is wonderful to see our residents invested in this project, but also so they can reap the rewards from their hard work.

Dare To Dream Story - Brian

Brian is a huge NASCAR fan. He knows the racers, NASCAR stats, all about the cars and what goes into the preparation for each race, and then of course enjoys race!! It has the restrictions Brian had a hospice. NASCAR, we his family to race with him. outfit with a matching mask. fudge sundaes Brian's brother even joined in via FaceTime with his sundae in hand. Once the race started, they enjoyed popcorn and much conversation in the theater. It certainly was a memorable event for the whole family. One of Brian's sisters commented "this is the most normal thing we have done in a very long time". It was wonderful to witness this memorable gathering with Brian and his family. Sadly, Brian passed away just one month later.
