The Communities (team members, residents, families) and Team at Ridgeline Management want to thank everyone for their assistance, support, and understanding during the last 15+ months. This truly unprecedented event has affected Senior Living and everyday life for all Americans, and will continue to for the foreseeable future.

Despite the hardship, what we learned during this time is that we can all pull together. We can all care about others as much as we care about ourselves. We can wear masks, and socially distance. We can have our temperatures taken, and eat in our suites. We can band together and try to make our living situations as warm, happy, and safe as possible. From hallway bingo, to a traveling happy-hour cart, to dancing team members outside of resident windows...we pulled together to get through this.

We are not quite in the clear yet. We will remain vigilant. But as our doors open wider each day, and visits and events and activities are permitted, the smiles behind those masks are growing larger and larger. We are excited in anticipation of removing those masks for good.

We are honored to be able to have served you and your families during this time. Thank you.
