

For Whom the Bar Tolls

For 40 years, Sloppy Joe's bar in Key West, Florida, has been holding its annual Ernest Hemingway look-alike contest in July. Dozens of white-bearded "Papa" Hemingway look-alikes gather in fisherman sweaters and khaki shirts to compete for the honor.

Sloppy Joe's may have officially opened as a bar on December 5, 1933 (the very day Prohibition was repealed), but Hemingway was a customer long before this date, frequently buying illicit alcohol from owner Joe Russell, who operated the place as a speakeasy. Despite subsequent changes of address, Hemingway would remain a longtime customer of Sloppy Joe's and a good friend of Joe Russell. Today, admirers of Hemingway make the trek down to Key West to walk in Hemingway's footsteps. Not only do visitors stop in for a drink (or several) at Sloppy Joe's, but they make the pilgrimage to the Hemingway House and Museum in Old Town, where the author wrote many of his most influential novels.

The Spanish colonial house was gifted to Hemingway and his wife Pauline from Pauline's uncle. When the Hemingways arrived in Key West, they underwent a massive restoration and remodeling of the home, including the construction of the property's famous (and massively expensive) in-ground pool, the first ever built in Key West. Visitors can see the very desk where Hemingway worked and stroll the grounds, which are famously inhabited by 40-50 cats, many of which are polydactyl, meaning they have extra toes.

These cats are believed to be the descendants of one polydactyl ancestor named Snow White. Local legend states that one night, while drinking at Sloppy Joe's, Hemingway met a sea captain who gifted Hemingway a multi-toed cat off his ship. Eventually, Hemingway would have nearly 70 cats living on the property. Some of Hemingway's look-alikes have even shown up at Sloppy Joe's with cats in their hands.

July Birthdays

In astrology, those born July 1-22 are Cancer's Crabs. Crabs like to retreat into their "shells" and enjoy being surrounded by loved ones at home. They nurture deep relationships and become loyal friends. Those born July 23-31 are Leo's Lions. These "kings of the savanna" are natural-born leaders, full of creativity, confidence, and charisma. Leos use their generosity and sense of humor to unite different groups into a common cause.

Exciting Updates

The Library is Coming to Town!

We are looking forward to partnering with the Ramey County Library to provide library services to those in our community. Starting in July we will have a monthly Pop-Up Library in our community that will offer a variety of library services to our residents. Some services include getting assistance in enrolling for a library card and checking out books, audio books, and movies. Our residents can also use this time to get tech help with their personal devices such as a cell phone, Ipad, or computer.

Religious Services

We are excited to welcome religious services into our community provided by Lutheran Church of the Resurrection. Services will take place at 9:30-10:30am on the first and third Thursday of the month, with communion offered on the third Thursday. These services are open to all residents that wish to participate. If you have any question or are interested in attending, please reach out to our Life Enrichment Coordinator, Britta.

Cookie Café

Check out our activities calendar to see what is going on in the community this July. We are excited about the addition of our Cookie Café, so come on down to the front lobby for cookies, coffee, cards, and great conversation with other each week.

Welcome to Our Community!

We are so excited to welcome all our new residents to The Preserve of Roseville. We are so happy to have you as a part of our wonderful community. We know the move in process can be a time of transition, but we are here to help in anyway we can! Please reach out to a staff member with any questions or concerns.

Life Enrichment

What better way to welcome summer than jumping into June activities. This month we had the opportunity to celebrate the gentlemen in our community with a Father's Day Cookout. The day was filled with fantastic food and the gentlemen in the community got a chance to meet some new friends. Our residents enjoyed creating Father's Day cards to donate and give to fellow family and friends. Some of our resident's favorite activities from the month include painting birdhouses, guess that tune, and our "Fun with Food" activity where we made a delicious Snickers Salad. Our "Taste Testers" group were able to sample snacks from the country of South Korea this month, it was an interesting experience full of unique flavors. Some activities we are looking forward to in July include Religious Services provided by Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, Library Services with the Ramsey Country Library, and an ice cream social to celebrate the Fourth of July.

Carving Out a Place in History

On July 14, 1943, George Washington Carver National Monument was dedicated in Missouri, near the birthplace and childhood home of the famed scientist, educator, and humanitarian. This was the first time in American history that a birthplace site was designated as a national monument for someone other than a president and the first national monument to commemorate an African American. Carver's contributions to agricultural science revolutionized farming in America. He innovated crop rotation and learned to replenish soil nutrients by planting nitrogen fixers such as peanuts, which led him to develop countless peanut-based products, work for which he earned renown as "The Peanut Man."
