Cowboy Pledge: Acts of Kindness

We asked you to send us your random acts of kindness in November as part of Cowboy Pledge. Today, we share those stories with you and hope they inspire you to look for ways to make a difference in someone's life. Entries have been lightly edited for length or clarity.

I was in a grocery store line and noticed a preteen behind me with a few purchases for herself and much younger sibling. She was studying the few dollars in her purse. I signaled the cashier to include her purchases with mine. She started to cry and thanked me sincerely. I told her it was my pleasure and asked her to do the same one day for another child after she grew up and had a job. ~ Teresa at Liberty Bend

I was walking home in the early evening and I use the flashlight on my cell phone to light up my path. An elderly lady stopped and commented on my light. I let her know that she should have that option on her cell phone as well if she so wished to use it in the dark. I helped explain to her how to find the flashlight settings and stayed with her until she found it and made sure her flashlight came on before leaving. She was so happy and thankful that she, too, can now use a flashlight when out and about in the dark. Her happiness lit up my day (no pun intended)! ~ Katherine at Liberty Crest

I made two Pecan Goat Milk Caramel Pumpkin Pies. One for me and one for an elderly neighbor and the staff at a local food bank. ~ Red at Liberty Midtown

As winter is getting closer and the homeless issue is getting worse in SLC, I decided to help as much as I can within my ability. When I was in Costco getting groceries, I grabbed an extra bunch of thick socks so that I could give them out to the people on the street. I spotted someone sitting on the sidewalk near City Creek. He told me his name is Wolf, and he has been homeless with no family for as long as he can remember, he is only 17. I gave him the socks and he was happy. At first I was worried that he would ask me for more money, but he only thanked me and told me how grateful he is. I felt so ashamed at the time. He then asked me if I believe in God, I said I do. We prayed together and it was such a special moment for me. I don't know where he is now, but I hope God can lead him to a good place. ~ Roger at Liberty Crest

I dropped off some pumpkin bread at the door of one of my sweet neighbors. ~ Sue at Liberty Metro

I was at Walmart and had put a Halloween decoration in my cart. A lady in a scooter rode past me and said how much she liked the Halloween dog. I went and grabbed one for her and stopped her when she was leaving the store to give it to her. She said "oh my gosh is that for me! Thank you! You made my day!" It was nice to make someone happy! ~ Jennifer at Liberty Center
