Hearing Health Tips & New Technologies

If you're struggling to hear certain sounds or voices that you've always been able to hear just fine, you may be facing a common issue: age-related hearing loss (known as presbycusis). It affects one in three adults over 65, and fortunately, there are various ways to treat it.

The causes of presbycusis include changes in the inner ear, middle ear, or in nerve paths to the brain. Other contributors may include prolonged exposure to loud noises, loss of hair cells, genetic factors, health conditions like heart disease or diabetes, and some medications, per John Hopkins Medicine. It is not a reversible condition so prevention (by avoiding loud noise exposure or wearing ear plugs) is wise.

If you're wondering if you're experiencing hearing loss, but are not sure, there are symptoms to look out for. Presbycusis often occurs gradually and subtly over time. You may find it harder than usual to hear soft voices, children's voices, and speech during background noise, and you may miss words in conversation, according to the American Academy of Audiology. You may also experience ear ringing or hear mumbled or slurred speech. To find out if you are in fact experiencing hearing loss, you'll want to seek a diagnosis from your health provider. You may be referred to a hearing specialist who can test if there are tones you're unable to hear.

When it comes to treatment options for hearing loss, the options are plentiful.

- Hearing Aids are widely used and just recently became available over the counter. Their technology moves forward with recent improvements such as directional

Did you know? Hearing loss affects 30-35% of adults between 65 and 75, and 40-50% of those 75 and older. (American Academy of Audiology)

- microphones that can help speech be understood over background noise.
- Cochlear implants can help by creating signals the brain interprets as sound.
- Telecoils can enhance hearing aids and cochlear implants.
- Assistive listening devices (a hearing loop system, FM system, or infrared system) help amplify sounds and can be used with or without hearing aids.
- Augmentative and alternative communication devices can help people express themselves via a picture board or text display.
- Alerting devices use sound, light, and vibrations to alert users of events. (National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders)

Staff Spotlight:
Monica M.

Meet Monica! She started working in 2001 at Farmington Square. She is an amazing cook. She is also a very proud and devoted mother. In her free time, Monica loves to travel and read her bible. Her favorite things are coffee in the morning and visiting new places. She really enjoys getting to know the residents individually.

We are delighted to have you with us, Monica!

Resident Spotlight:
Euel R.

Euel is very outgoing and enjoys his free time watching his favorite television shows. Euel has made many friends here at Farmington Square and is has settled very nicely into his new home. He enjoys laughing with the team and other residents here, and he loves to talk about almost anything. Euel is very friendly and if you get the chance, stop by and say hello!

We are so happy to have Euel here at Farmington Square!
