- No
- Yes

What techniques are used for redirection?

For redirection, we teach staff to not attempt to orient the resident to the current situation, but rather to meet them where they are. We also teach "therapeutic fibs" in which the staff attempt to calm the resident by redirecting them to something else by creatively answering the resident's question. We also teach about unmet needs and the importance of engagement.

What activities are offered during overnight hours for those that need them?

Overnight, if activities are needed they include music, movies/tv shows, board games, card games, and other simple table top games care staff can utilize. Snacks are always available to offer at night as well.
