A MONTH OF MISSION: CELEBRATING OUR SHARED MINISTRY IN MAY

All year long, Presbyterian Communities is engaged in ministering to older adults in the name of the Presbyterian churches of South Carolina. But May is the month when the special relationship between PCSC and the churches is felt most keenly.

During May, churches around the state promote and collect the Mother's Day Offering during worship. This effort raises a significant source of funds to support charitable care for PCSC residents who can no longer pay the full cost of their care. For this we are most grateful.

But raising funds for charitable care is not the only important aspect of the Mother's Day Offering. Promoting the Offering is also a special opportunity to highlight the ministry of PCSC for church members. It is an opportunity to educate and remind our churches about the significance PCSC holds for Presbyterians.

For instance, PCSC is a source of pride. It is astonishing to realize what South Carolina Presbyterians have put into this organization and what God has done with those efforts to produce the remarkable ministry that PCSC is today.

In addition, while PCSC joyfully serves seniors of all faiths, it was initially created to serve our church members, and it still exists for that purpose. We want the older adults in our congregations (and their children) to remember this is "our" senior living organization for "our people." We want them to consider PCSC when they are "shopping" for senior living and reach out to us when they have questions.

PCSC is also a place where church members and church groups can volunteer. This can range from putting on a ladies' tea (or a men's fish fry) to having a children's choir perform or having a youth group play games with residents. There are also opportunities for individual volunteers to assist with programmed activities or simply read to residents. Volunteering is a vitally important way to support and bless the residents of PCSC, one that brings the added joy and satisfaction of personal contact.

PCSC is grateful for the generosity displayed in the Mother's Day Offering both by Presbyterians and the multitude of non-Presbyterians who support this ministry. But we are grateful for the opportunity May presents to showcase the ministry of PCSC and invite church members to engage in the full range of benefits and opportunities available to them.

YOUR GENEROSITY MATTERS!

For more than six decades, Presbyterian congregations across South Carolina have observed the cherished tradition of receiving a Mother’s Day Offering in support of Presbyterian Communities of South Carolina. From its earliest days, this annual gift has helped provide charitable care for residents who, after years of faithful stewardship, find their savings insufficient to meet their full monthly living expenses. The circumstances may vary — extraordinary longevity, a major health crisis, or a spouse requiring a higher level of care while the other remains in their original residence — but the need is real. And your generosity makes a tangible difference.

To watch this year’s video, you can scan the QR code or simply go to prescommunities.org, click on Support Our Mission, and then click Mother’s Day Offering. We know you will be inspired.

In 2025, your gifts helped PCSC provide charitable care support to 20 residents ranging in age from their late 70s to more than 100 years old. That support matters deeply to the residents themselves, to their families, and to the staff who care for them each day. Without it, this vital dimension of PCSC’s ministry simply could not continue.

Most congregations received the 2026 Mother’s Day Offering recently, and results are still coming in. If you or your congregation have not yet had the opportunity to give, there is still time. Please visit giving.prescommunities.org to make a one-time or recurring gift online by credit card or direct debit from your checking account or return your check in the envelope included in this issue.

We are grateful for your continued generosity.

Faithfully,

William McConnell, CFRE
 Senior Vice President of Philanthropy and Church Relations

Finding Beauty Everywhere

2026 MOTHER'S DAY OFFERING ARTIST BRUCE KRUCKE

This year's Mother's Day Offering artist, Bruce Krucke, is no stranger to finding beauty wherever she goes. A New England native, Bruce and her husband, Bill, have lived at The Village at Summerville for the past 11 years. The couple first arrived in the Lowcountry in 1974 after Bill's job transfer, and they never left.

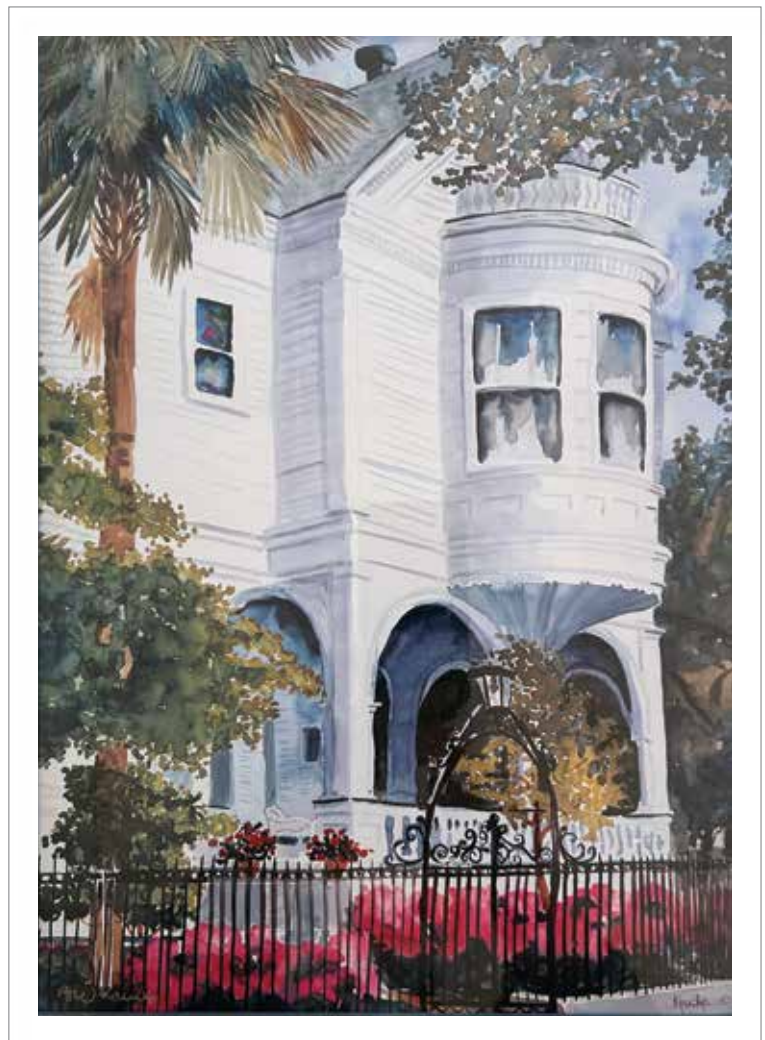

Although Bruce had experimented with painting before moving south, the landscapes and light of the Lowcountry ignited a deeper artistic passion. She initially explored pastels, oils and acrylics, but, as Bruce likes to say, the air told her to pursue watercolor. After arriving at The Village, she credits former Village neighbor and 2021 Mother's Day Offering artist Beverly DeCoodt Long with helping her master the medium.

Bruce's watercolor portfolio includes a series of eight paintings depicting iconic Charleston scenes. Among them is the Two Meeting Street Inn, featured as this year's Mother's Day Offering artwork. Another painting from the series The Three Sisters, capturing a group of historic Charleston homes, briefly appears over the fireplace in a scene from Nicholas Sparks' film The Notebook.

After completing her Charleston series, Bruce turned her attention to African wildlife, inspired by 14 trips to the continent. Many of those journeys took her to Botswana, a country she holds dear for its extraordinary natural beauty and wildlife.

A graduate of Sweet Briar College in Virginia, Bruce served as her class secretary for many years. Beyond painting, she is an avid birder, finding joy in observing and celebrating the natural world. That same world inspires her art. Her work is on display throughout The Village, including the Creative Arts Center and Gallery Hall, for all to enjoy.

PCSC is deeply grateful to Bruce for allowing us to feature her beautiful art in the 2026 Mother's Day Offering campaign.

YOUR RMD REALLY MAKES A DIFFERENCE!

Did you know that the RMD from your IRA could be part of your QCD to support PCSC? How in the world is someone reading that sentence supposed to interpret an alphabet soup that looks like it came straight out of a medical textbook? It's actually quite straightforward, and a conversation with your financial planner can help turn this seeming gobbledygook into something simple and meaningful.

If you have a traditional IRA in your financial portfolio and are above the age of 73, you are likely required to withdraw a Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) each year. Whether or not you itemize your deductions, there may be significant tax benefits if you use that RMD to make a Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD) to Presbyterian Communities of South Carolina. Your gift may be designated to support charitable care, a specific area of the PCSC ministry, or given as an unrestricted gift to be used where it is needed most. Regardless of how it is directed, your RMD Really Makes a Difference in the lives of PCSC residents and the ongoing ministry of this organization.

Be sure to talk with your financial advisor for guidance. Remember that for the gift to be tax deductible, the organization holding your IRA must send the funds — by check or electronic transfer — directly to PCSC.

To learn more about this opportunity or other ways to support the PCSC ministry, contact the Office of Foundation Services at (803) 772-5885 ext. 4 or visit prescomm.plannedgiving.org. Your planned gifts, no matter how large or small, make a tremendous difference in the lives of those who call Presbyterian Communities home. Thank you.

PCSC STAFF RECOGNIZED FOR EXCELLENCE

At the recent annual conference for LeadingAge, the state-wide organization of retirement communities of which PCSC is a member, two staff members received well-deserved recognition for their service to residents and their families.

Leslie Anzalone, Executive Director of The Foothills Retirement Community, received the Outstanding Leader Award, which honors individuals whose leadership reflects vision, mentorship and a deep commitment to improving the lives of older adults. Through her leadership, Leslie has helped foster a community grounded in respect, collaboration and purpose. She is known for mentoring future leaders, encouraging professional growth and ensuring residents remain central to every decision. Her dedication to both operational excellence and meaningful human connection exemplifies outstanding leadership in aging services.

Leslie Anzalone with Kassie South (President and CEO of LeadingAge SC) and David Bucksborn (Immediate Past Chair of the LeadingAge SC Board of Directors).

Cassandra Carter with Ellen Williams, (member of the LeadingAge SC Board of Directors), Mandy Stamper (PCSC Executive Vice President and COO) and Kassie South (President and CEO of LeadingAge SC)

Cassandra Carter, Director of Residential Services at Laurel Crest, received the Excellence in Caring Award, which recognizes those who consistently demonstrate empathy, professionalism and an unwavering commitment to resident well-being. Cassandra is recognized for her exceptional caregiving and steadfast devotion to those she serves, helping ensure residents and families feel supported, valued and respected.

PCSC is proud to recognize Leslie and Cassandra as valued members of our team whose work exemplifies Presbyterian Communities' mission of enriching the quality of life for senior adults of all faiths.

LET THE GAMES BEGIN!

With the explosive excitement of more than 300 residents and staff members from all six communities, the soaring notes of John Williams' Olympic Fanfare, and an appropriately bedecked flame bearer, Peggy Furr, the 15th Annual PCSC Olympics officially began. Barely containable energy and cheers filled the host Columbia Community grounds, which overflowed with good-natured competition among residents, encouraged by spirited cheering squads and fueled by a shared sense of joy. Thankfully, the Columbia Community has no nearby neighbors who might otherwise have been awakened (or alarmed!) by the energetic and boisterous happy chaos.

The festivities opened with a ceremonial procession of the Olympic Torch, followed by a meaningful opening prayer offered by the Columbia Community chaplain, The Rev. Brooklynn Smith. From the very start, residents, staff and volunteers alike brought their A-games, positive attitudes, beaming smiles and boundless enthusiasm to create an extraordinary day together. Even the weather showed up in perfect form, adding to the celebratory atmosphere.

Eager to showcase their athletic prowess and skills, residents competed in a wide range of events, including walking, miniature golf, bocce ball, cornhole, and Wii bowling. Returning for its second year, the highly competitive timed puzzle contest continued to draw increased interest and excitement. Performances across all communities were impressive, highlighting both determination and teamwork.

For the first time in event history, the coveted Overall Trophy for the highest point total was proudly and loudly claimed by two communities: Clinton and Columbia, who tied for the top honor.

Throughout the day, sharp-eyed members of the Management Services Office, easily identifiable in their vibrant tie-dye attire, evaluated team spirit, cheers and sportsmanship to determine this year’s Spirit Award winner. After careful deliberation, the Mighty Ducks of Florence waddled away with this prestigious recognition. Meanwhile, the Laurel Crest culinary team, led by Executive Chef Nunamaker Elkins, claimed victory in the Cookie Challenge with their decadently delicious Apple Pie Cookie. All proceeds from the challenge benefited the winning community’s Employee Emergency Fund.

Vice President of Resident Life Amy Laughlin led an intrepid team of Life Enrichment and Wellness Directors from all communities to create a day filled with organized chaos, raucous laughter, vibrant energy and genuine connection. Each year, the PCSC Olympics continues to grow in anticipation, participation, enjoyment and inter-community camaraderie. Plans for the 2027 games are already underway promising even more excitement on the horizon.

The Terraces AT FOOTHILLS

EXCITEMENT IS BUILDING AT THE FOOTHILLS RETIREMENT COMMUNITY!

The most recent issue of Community Connections celebrated the official groundbreaking of The Terraces at Foothills, an exciting new residential community that will bring more than 100 apartments for Independent Living residents to The Foothills Retirement Community campus in Easley. The project also includes major renovations and updates to the main building, along with a new 24-bed Memory Care household named Evergreen House. Evergreen House is designed around the Association Montessori Internationale's lifestyle approach to dementia and aging in order to expand the community's capacity to serve residents whose needs require this care.

Now the momentum is real: construction is underway. Renovations in the main building are well in progress, work has begun on Evergreen House, and The Terraces site is being prepared for construction. With many moving parts across these interconnected projects, The Terraces should begin welcoming new residents in the summer of 2027, with full completion projected for summer 2028.

There's already plenty to celebrate. Residents are looking forward to meeting their newest neighbors and friends.

Folks in the Upstate who have watched and respected The Foothills Retirement Community are buzzing with excitement. Nearly 25 percent of The Terraces apartments are reserved, with individuals and couples confidently planning for their future at The Terraces at Foothills.

If you — or someone you love — are considering making The Terraces at Foothills your home, we invite you to learn more at www.theterracesatfoothills.org or contact the Marketing and Sales Department at (864) 859-3367.

LEARNING NEW SKILLS AND SOLIDIFYING FOUNDATIONS

The Florence community recently hosted two impactful training opportunities for PCSC staff made possible by the generosity of the Mary S. and John D. Murchison, Sr., Education Fund. Speech Language Pathologists, Occupational Therapists, and Life Enrichment, Wellness, and Memory Care staff from all six communities came together to learn new skills that will positively impact residents across the organization.

Training for Rehabilitation Services therapists focused on VitalStim, a treatment modality for residents experiencing difficulty in swallowing. Under physician orders, certified therapists use specialized equipment to strengthen and retrain swallowing muscles affected by illness, stroke or injury. As a result of this training — organized by Vice President of Rehabilitation Services Matt Schorner — all six communities now have access to certified therapists trained to provide VitalStim therapy. This enhances continuity of care beyond the hospital setting and promotes greater safety, dignity and independence for residents needing this service, whether in short-term rehabilitation or long-term residency.

In addition, nearly 30 Life Enrichment, Wellness, and Memory Care staff participated in a three-day introduction and refresher course — organized by Vice President of Resident Life, Amy Laughlin — in the Montessori Approach to Aging and Dementia Care, presented by Jennifer Brush Associates. Through classroom learning and hands-on experiences, staff strengthened their skills in providing thoughtful, dignified care to residents in PCSC's nationally recognized memory care households as well as to others experiencing varying levels of cognitive decline.

The Mary S. and John D. Murchison, Sr., Education Fund was established through the generosity of Mrs. Margaret Murchison Rudel, a longtime supporter of Presbyterian Communities. We are deeply grateful for Mrs. Rudel's generosity throughout her life and the many initiatives supported through her enduring legacy.
